That they did not is the most striking evidence that Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev realized that if Russian soldiers shot down Polish citizens in a fight over political issues, the action might destroy the myth of friendly Russian relations with other Communist states.

But they did not go into action. They were under the control of Communist leaders, but the struggle in Hungary exploded into open civil war.

The picture presented to the world is one of Russian soldiers, tanks and jet planes ruthlessly blasting the desperate attempt of Hungarian revolutionaries to restore their country's independence.

Officials and Western diplomats here are convinced this will do tremendous damage to Russia's fundamental foreign policy and propaganda line.

AMBASSADOR ON WHEELS—Sleek lines of this 1957 equivalent of America's Joe Smith, when it appeared in Moscow at about the same time as the 1957 models were unveiled in the U.S. Idea for a new American-made car, the Ambassador, was a sort of automotive cloak-and-dagger plot hatched by the State Department and Ford officials. They see it as a forceful presentation of the American economic story in terms of the availability of the average U.S. worker, for transportation by rail to the American embassy in Moscow, it's one of eight new Ford models added to the embassy's motor pool of mostly pre-1939 American-made autos.

school teacher from Rochester, N. Y., wanted to know "how long it will be necessary for us to have a draft."

Speaking from a Washington TV studio with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, the President replied he would be really using a crystal ball if he tried to predict. He added he didn't think he would be justified in talking about termination of the draft "in terms of months or years."

He went on to say that with three million American men now under arms, the nation can count on only about half that number as volunteers.

The next question was from Mrs. Louis Martin, Negro mother of 12 children who lives on a farm near Salisbury, Md. She said she is "really worried" about the H-bomb, and asked:

"I would like to know what is the future of our families in this some way."

Calling in a very serious and somewhat question, Eisenhower said "the world must find a peaceful solution" to the problem presented by the superbomb.

Without mentioning Stevenson's proposal, the President said: "We can never have a hydrogen war, as I see it, and still have a civilization such as we now have."

Eisenhower called it "absolutely necessary that progress be made"—apparently toward what he regards as adequate international control of atomic weapons. Then he said:

"Now, as to the hydrogen bomb itself, if we are going to remain secure in the type of world we have now, with aggression always possible, we must urge agreement from a position of strength. Strength can cooperate with its neighbors and with other people; weakness cannot. Weakness can only retreat."

Two part of that strength is the bombs, because they prevent aggression, as we said before. They are deterrent that warn any aggressor: 'Don't attack us because it would be suicidal.'"

On other questions, Eisenhower said this to say:

Economic outlook—"The preponderant number of economic factors point to a continuation of good times, possibly not to the exact thought you have to me, but in a general level."

Small business—"The Eisenhower administration looks on small business firms as the backbone of our whole economy" and through 1955 had instituted "a suite for anti-trust action to keep big business from getting in such a dominant position that they can squeeze out the little fellow."

Agriculture—"The farm outlook at present is 'very good' because 'in these last six months farm prices have started back up.'"

Taxes—"Taking issue with Stevenson's contention that administration relief has gone predominantly to big business, Eisenhower said that of the $7,400,000 reduction in taxes that he took office, "two thirds of it went to individuals, and a much bigger per cent to the people than paid the lowest taxes than those who paid the highest."

The New York speech tonight is the last one Eisenhower has scheduled this week. He plans to enter Walter Reed Army Hospital later Saturday for a physical examination with a report on the results to be made public Sunday.

Next week, starting Monday, he will resume his regular schedule of trips scheduled Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. He will make six speeches in five states—Florida, Virginia, Texas, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson is hoping for lots of mileage Saturday from his touchdown twins, Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas as the Sooners lead the college football season.

Wilkinson is well aware that the key to the game will be the deciding factor in the nationally televised game at Santa Clara. He is counting on his offensive line to bring Oklahoma's first victory over the Sooners.

Dismissal of Dr. Brennecke Is Upheld

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Merit System Council yesterday upheld the dismissal of Dr. Frances Brennecke and her attorney presented a court appeal.

Adding a lengthy record of bad behavior, the council said state welfare Commissioner Carl Adams was justified in firing Dr. Brennecke as director of the crippled children's division because her working relationship with staff orthopedic surgeons was "deteriorated beyond the point of no return."

Edwin B. Duhaway of Little Rock, Dr. Brennecke's attorney, branded the decision as "unjustified character assassination."

He said the action "is no more than what we expected all along."

The council criticized Adams for the way he fired Dr. Brennecke last spring.

His original reason for firing her—to give the post to Dr. E. C. Gay, who held it before World War II, in keeping with provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act—was "a device employed rather than meeting the situation with firmness," the council said.

After Dr. Brennecke objected to her dismissal last spring, Adams said he did not give her a chance to get another job.

The council's report, issued by Director John L. Rogers, signed by the three council members, Chairman Raymond Rebsamen, John Collins and J. C. Mitchell.

The council defended its decision to exclude newsmen and the public from the hearing by saying it wanted to avoid a "recreation of a situation that developed at a May 9 session" when Dr. Brennecke was fired.

It also said, "Personal matters should be kept out of official proceedings. Judicial bodies in closed sessions are intended to avoid intimidation and coercion."

The council denied Dr. Brennecke's first appeal for a hearing on her dismissal. She then appealed to the state circuit court.

Dr. Brennecke's attorney, Duhaway, said this was illegal and would be reversed.

He said the council's decision to hold the hearing in closed session was "a reversal of its earlier illegal action," Duhaway said.

Dismissing of Dr. Brennecke Is Upheld

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Merit System Council yesterday upheld the dismissal of Dr. Frances Brennecke and her attorney presented a court appeal.

Adding a lengthy record of court hearings, the council said state welfare Commissioner Carl Adams was justified in firing Dr. Brennecke as director of the crippled children's division because her working relationship with staff orthopedic surgeons was "deteriorated beyond the point of no return."

Edwin B. Duhaway of Little Rock, Dr. Brennecke's attorney, branded the decision as "unjustified character assassination."

He said the action "is no more than we had expected all along." The council criticized Adams for the way he fired Dr. Brennecke last spring.

His original reason for firing her — to give the post to Dr. E. C. Gay, who held it before World War II, in keeping with provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act — was a "device employed rather than meeting the situation with fairness," the council said.

After Dr. Brennecke objected to her dismissal last spring, Adams said he did not give her the real reason at first in order to avoid damaging her professional standing before she had a chance to get another job.

The council's report, issued by Director John L. Rogers, was signed by the three council members, Chairman Raymond Rebsamen, John Collins and J. Mitchell.

The council excluded its decision to exclude newsmen and the public from the hearing by saying it wanted to avoid a "recreation of a situation that developed at a May 9 session" when Dr. Brennecke was fired.

It also said, "Personal matters should be kept out of official proceedings. Judicial bodies in closed sessions are to be avoided to avoid intimidation and coercion."

The council denied Dr. Brennecke's first appeal for a hearing on her dismissal. She then appealed to the state Merit System Council. Dr. Brennecke's attorney said the council's decision was "unjustified character assassination."

After Dr. Brennecke objected to her dismissal last spring, Adams said he did not give her the real reason at first in order to avoid damaging her professional standing before she had a chance to get another job.

The council's report, issued by Director John L. Rogers, was signed by the three council members, Chairman Raymond Rebsamen, John Collins and J. Mitchell.

The council excluded its decision to exclude newsmen and the public from the hearing by saying it wanted to avoid a "recreation of a situation that developed at a May 9 session" when Dr. Brennecke was fired.

It also said, "Personal matters should be kept out of official proceedings. Judicial bodies in closed sessions are to be avoided to avoid intimidation and coercion."

The council denied Dr. Brennecke's first appeal for a hearing on her dismissal. She then appealed to the state Merit System Council. Dr. Brennecke's attorney said the council's decision was "unjustified character assassination."

He said the action "is no more than we had expected all along." The council criticized Adams for the way he fired Dr. Brennecke last spring.

His original reason for firing her — to give the post to Dr. E. C. Gay, who held it before World War II, in keeping with provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act — was a "device employed rather than meeting the situation with fairness," the council said.

Durocher May Manage the Indians

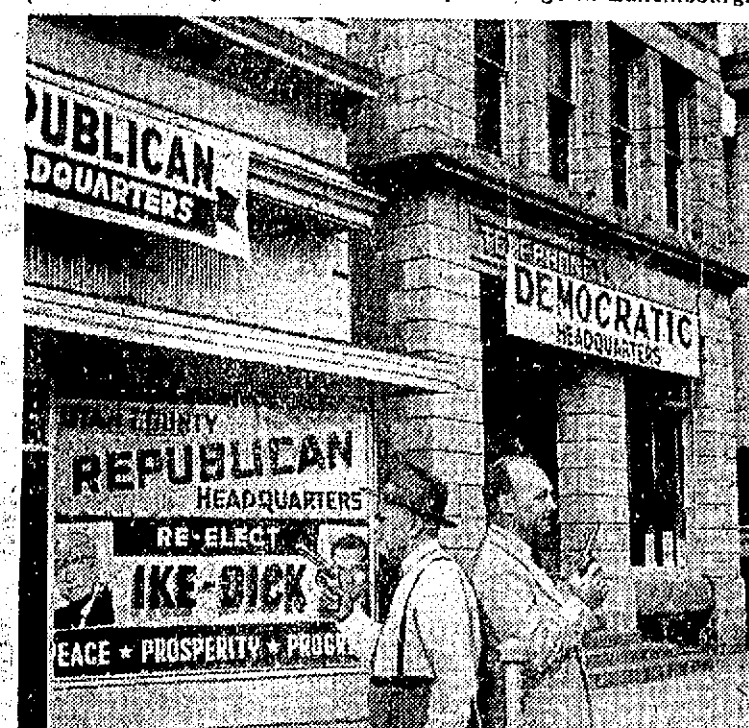

HOPE, Ark. (UP)—Leo Durocher, who has been managing the Yankees since 1946, is expected to be named manager of the Cleveland Indians today, according to reports from New York.

Durocher's decision whether to return to baseball as manager of the Cleveland Indians, it was learned today, is the same source who pointed out that "Leo's friend" who had been managing the Yankees since 1946, is expected to be named manager of the Cleveland Indians today, according to reports from New York.

Durocher started his major league career with the Yankees in 1946 but, they let him go after the 1954 season. He has since been managing the Yankees since 1946, but they let him go after the 1954 season. He has since been managing the Yankees since 1946, but they let him go after the 1954 season.

NEW BELGIAN ISSUE—The new Belgian postage stamp above was issued to mark the inauguration of a new electric railroad line connecting Brussels and Luxembourg. The two franc stamp, printed in blue, features a map of Belgium showing the new line. At left is the steeple of the Brussels town hall and at right the Gustave-Adolphe Bridge in Luxembourg.

PUBLICAN—Durocher, now a $50,000-a-year executive with the National Broadcasting Company, admitted yesterday that he has talked with Durocher about the vacant managerial post with the Indians. He indicated, however, that he would return to managing the Yankees if he were offered a "piece of a club."

Basketball Change Is Studied

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The face of the Arkansas high school football and basketball maps may be changed before another season rolls around.

The Arkansas Athletic Association announced yesterday that proposals which would change the present classification of high school teams would be introduced at its meeting here next Thursday.

High school teams are classified according to enrollment and then placed in districts that generally are determined by geography. The purpose is to place teams in championship races with teams of their own size.

The swelling enrollment of most schools may be breaking the present lineup of districts.

Durocher May Manage the Indians

HOPE, Ark. (UP)—Leo Durocher, who has been managing the New York Yankees since 1938, is expected to be named manager of the Cleveland Indians today, according to reports from New York.

Durocher's decision whether to return to baseball as manager of the Cleveland Indians, it was learned today, is the same source who pointed out that "Leo's friend" and "his friend" is Leo's friend, and will be an important factor.

Durocher wants a lot of money and he's going to have it, the source said. "But Durocher, he's never been the Yankees. Doing so as manager of the Indians would be the climax of his career. And there's nobody else who would do it for him."

Durocher started his major league career with the Yankees in 1938 but, they let him go after the 1942 season. "Ever since—even when he was 'top man' in the National League—Leo has yearned to return to baseball."

Durocher, now a $50,000-a-year executive with the National Broadcasting Company, admitted yesterday that he has talked with Durocher about the vacant managerial post with the Indians. He insisted, however, that he would return to managing a baseball team only if he offered "a piece of a club."

Durocher also confirmed that he had discussed the matter with Durocher. "Frank and I have been friends for 25 years, and I don't see any reason why I should go to work for him," he said.

There are conflicting reports about Leo's decision. Some say he is happy where he is, but others say he is looking for an out. "One source said that Leo is not wearing pretty thin," the source added.

The 51-year-old Durocher led the Yankees to a pennant in 1941 and 1942, and won the World Series in 1941.

Basketball Change Is Studied

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The face of the Arkansas high school basketball game may be changed before another season rolls around.

The Arkansas Athletic Association announced yesterday that proposals which would change the game's classification to high school teams would be introduced at its meeting here next Thursday.

High school teams are classified according to enrollment and then placed in districts that generally are determined by geography. The purpose is to place teams in championship games with teams of their own size.

The swelling enrollment of most schools may be breaking the present lineup of districts.

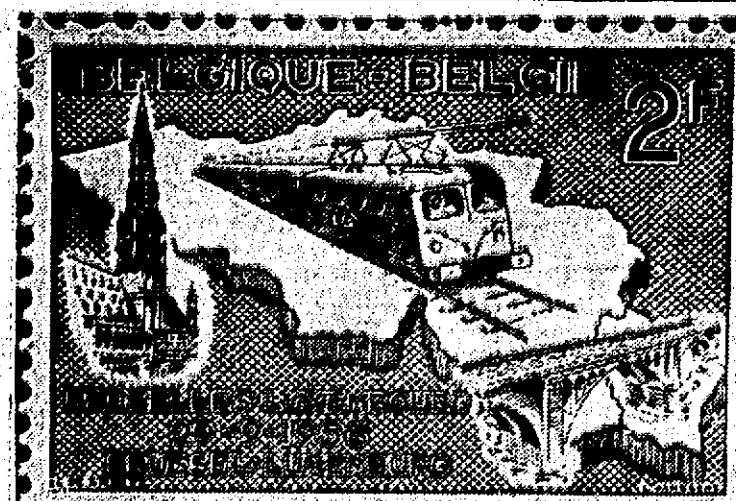

Under the proposals, for study, there would be two classes: Class A—From 200 to 400; Class B—From 400 to 600; Class C—From 600 to 800; Class D—From 800 to 1,000; Class E—From 1,000 to 1,200; Class F—From 1,200 to 1,400; Durocher May Manage the Indians

HOPE, Ark. (UP)—Durocher, who has been managing the Yankees since 1935, is expected to be named manager of the Cleveland Indians today, according to reports from New York.

It is possible that Durocher will be named manager of the Indians, but it is not certain. Durocher has been managing the Yankees since 1935, and he has been very successful. He has won the pennant three times, and he has been named manager of the year twice.

Basketball Change Is Studied

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—The face of the Arkansas high school basketball game may be changed before another season rolls around.

The Arkansas Athletic Association announced yesterday that it is studying the possibility of changing the rules of the game. The association is considering changes that would make the game more exciting and faster-paced.

The changes being considered include a reduction in the number of fouls per player, a change in the three-point rule, and a change in the way the game is officiated. The association is hoping to implement these changes next season.

Others Doing What Tito Did Back in 1948

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia lost her absolute control of world communism before Stalin died in 1953, when Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia in 1948, and thrived, and the Chinese took over China six years later.

Nikita Khrushchev, Red party boss in Russia, and the other heirs of Stalin are being pointed to now as the men who led Russia's rise from grip on the satellites.

But when Khrushchev last February, in his speech denouncing Stalin, conceded there are various reasons for the Russian success, he was recognizing a reality and trying to make the best of a deplorable situation.

This was the reality: Russia couldn't hope to make a satellite of the 500 million Chinese whose leaders had fought almost alone for more than 20 years. Tito's successful defiance of Russia was an incentive to others to follow.

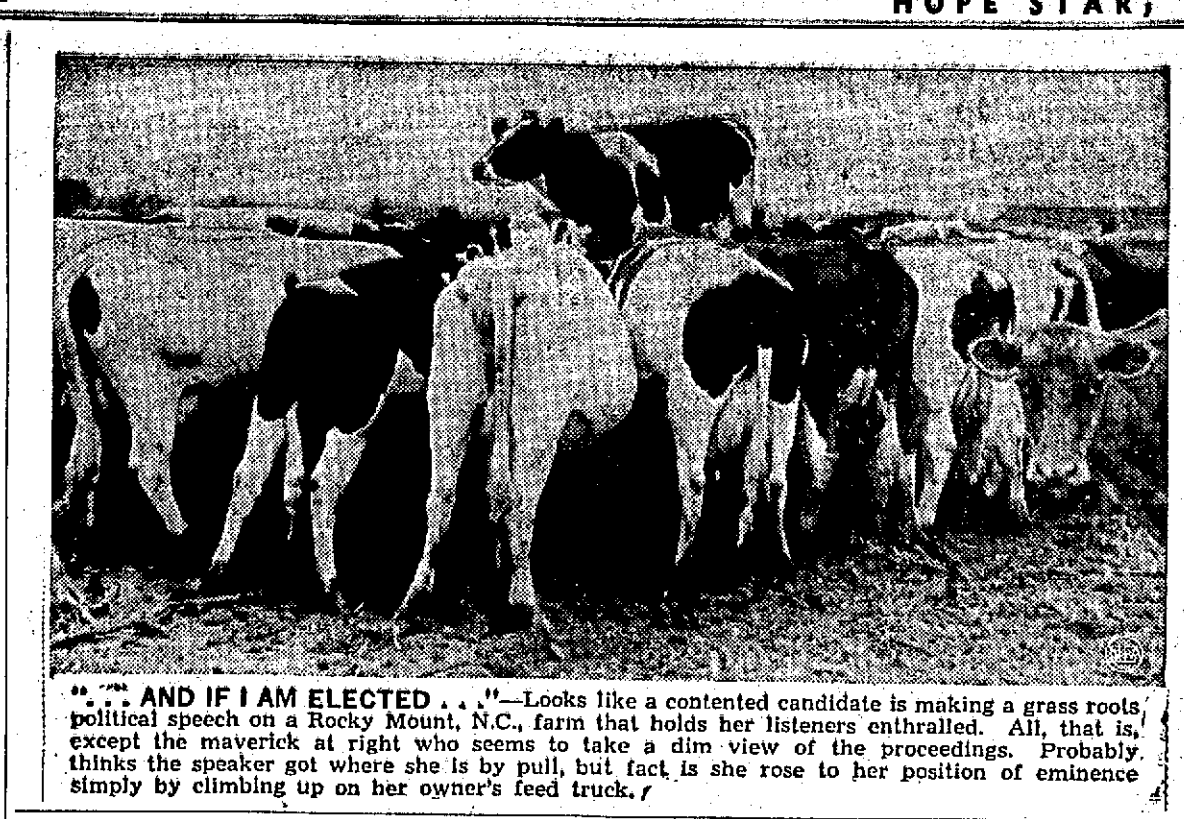

After the example set by Tito and Red China, it was inevitable that sooner or later some of Russia's European satellites, all slowly autonomous, should try to assert some independence.

As it turned out, the Poles and Hungarians have just made the try.

The irony for the new Kremlin is that by encouraging nationalism in the non-communist satellites, it has encouraged the very thing it has been trying to suppress.

In Poland and Hungary, the Russian leadership decided, for reasons of its own, to encourage their own satellites.

The irony for the new Kremlin is that by encouraging nationalism in the non-communist satellites, it has encouraged the very thing it has been trying to suppress.

AND IF I AM ELECTED...—Looks like a contented candidate is making a grass roots political speech on a Rocky Mount, N.C., farm that holds her listeners enthralled. All, that is, thinks the speaker got where she is by pull, but fact is she rose to her position of eminence simply by climbing up on her own feed truck.

Just cause. Russian intrusion gives the Hungarians that much more reason to hate the Russians and communists with equal fervor, and revolt again.

But at least the events in Poland and Hungary—to look on the sunny side—may be the foot in the door for further breakaways from Russian control. The Russians certainly suffered a major disaster to this extent.

Their use of troops in Hungary makes a force of their efforts to convince the neutral and underdeveloped countries that their intentions are unselfish or that their anticommunism is real.

Programs Give Insight to Yourself

By CHARLES MERGER

NEW YORK (UP)—Three new weekly television programs which I happen to enjoy have given me new insight into myself. I am, it seems, about 14 years old and find great pleasure in the military tradition. I believe death is preferable to dishonor. I am always loyal to my friends and true to the fine ideals presented to me in my more vulnerable years. I have a pure mind in a strong body and I enjoy taking great risks when the cause is worthy.

As a friend of the front row is shaking his head, saying, "This is not I, sir, it is not, except when I'm watching West Point (CBS-TV) on Friday evenings or Bangor Lancers (NBC-TV) on Sunday evenings or Sir Lancelot (NBC-TV) on Monday evenings. These are three of the most brightly polished and technically MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet magazine "Military Knowledge" accused the American Army today of employing bacteriological warfare while fighting the Indians back in the 18th century.

The magazine, a monthly military and civil defense publication, announced that the U. S. Army had been using bacteriological weapons for a long time.

The publication reviewed charges that the United States used germ warfare during the Korean War. It said that the U. S. Army had been using bacteriological weapons for a long time.

Machen Gets to Holman in the 7th

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—Unbeaten Eddie Machen, a lightning fast puncher from Reed City, Mich., today ended a tentative date with "Tommy" (Hurricane) Jackson after his knockout win over Johnny Holman last night.

Commenting on his key of Holman, the seventh ranked heavy weight evaded his sharp left jab through the early rounds with the vim.

"My left jab did the work all the way," Machen said in his dressing room after the fight ended in 28 seconds of the seventh round.

Sid Flaherty, manager of the unbeaten heavyweight, said the fight went according to plan. "I told him to box for the first six rounds, then go after him," he said.

It was the plan, Machen fought it to perfection. For six rounds he stalked his heavier opponent, then unleashed a flurry of bludgeoning blows as the seventh round began.

"It sure came fast," Holman said.

The fight was carried to television over the ABC network. It was the first fight ever beamed nationally from the Pacific Northwest.

Chen had the edge on the referee's cards when his sudden burst ended the bout. Referee Volk had given all six rounds to him while Judge Ralph Gruman saw it for him.

Gruman had read 30-30 while Gruman had it 32-31 and Robinson 34-32.

Williams, Musial Boost Averages

By SHELTON SAKOWITZ

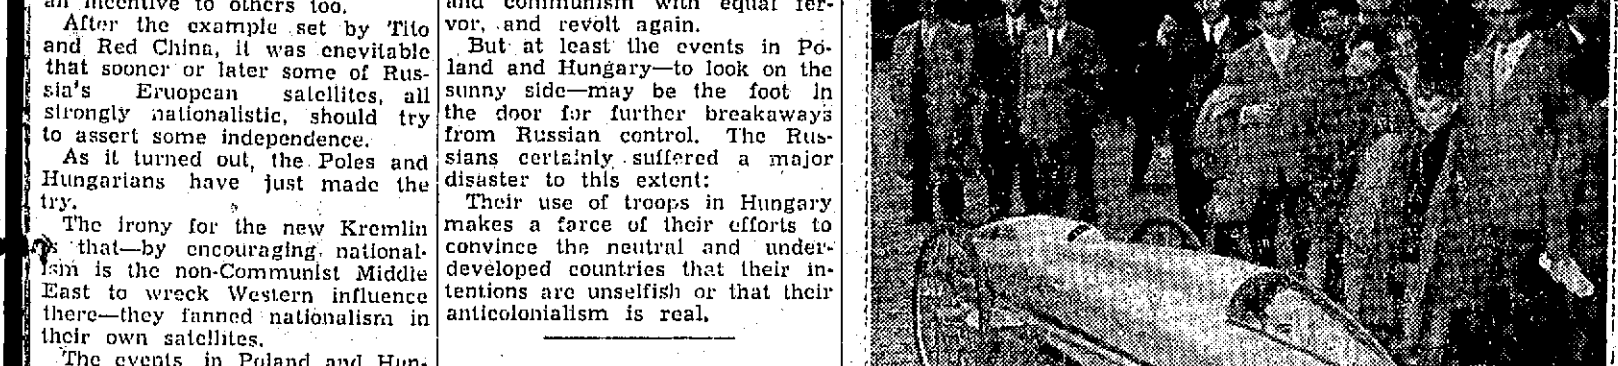

NEW YORK (UP)—Boston's Ted Williams and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals today boosted the highest lifetime batting averages in the major leagues with 18 other players hitting .300 or better.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press show that Williams' lifetime mark remained at .343, while Musial's average climbed two points to .340. Williams hit .343 for the year and Musial .319.

Williams, who began his career with Boston in 1939 and then did two stints in St. Louis, has won six batting titles, including three straight from 1954 to 1956. His highest average was .370 last year.

Musial, 35, completing his 13th season with St. Louis, also never has finished below .300. He has played both the outfield and first base, has won six batting titles, including three straight from 1954 to 1956. His highest average was .370 last year.

Twelve active National League players, among those who have participated in at least 200 games, are .300 or better averages. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Pittsburgh's Bill Virden moved into this elite category as a result of their 1956 performances.

Basketball Change Is Studied

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The face of the Arkansas high school football and basketball maps may be changed before another season rolls around.

The Arkansas Athletic Association announced yesterday that proposals which would juggle the present classification of high school teams would be introduced at its meeting here next Thursday.

CHAPTER XXVIII
When the doctor was through with me, they gave me some clothes, pants and a shirt. I was in a daze. I thought of something that was a cross between shoes and slippers. No, I was in a daze. There was no belt for the pants either. None of the clothes fit too well.

After that they led me down to the other end of the corridor where we took the elevator down to the main floor. They herded me into the first door. It turned out to be a large dining room, filled with long tables and benches. There must have been about a hundred men there eating breakfast. All of them were dressed as I was.

One of the attendants nudged me. "Go over there," he said, "and get a tray and utensils. Then go along the railing and you'll get your breakfast. Sit down any place you want to."

I saw the long railing in front of me. Two men stood back of the counter although now there weren't any customers. One of them was a stock of trays. Next to the trays were some big bowls and coffee mugs and spoons. I took a bowl and mug and two spoons. Then I stopped down to where the two men waited. One of them filled the bowl with oatmeal and slit the little pitcher of milk into the tray. I was about to move on when one of the men spoke in German.

"Here," he said. "Don't you wait there." He was holding a package of cheap German cigarettes and matches. I nodded and he tossed them into my tray. I went over to the nearest table.

There was another surprise for me. I'd expected the oatmeal to be the worst I'd ever had in prison, but it wasn't. Not that I'm an oatmeal fancier. The way I look at it, once you've got oatmeal, you've had it. They should have kept it in Scotland. But I was hungry enough to eat it. At first, I thought all the men looked like I did. They were dressed exactly the same. Now I began to notice differences. About half of the men, those at the other end of the room, were wearing a red strip slanting across both arms of their shirts. And they looked healthier and more alert than the rest of the men, the ones without the red bar. I looked again at my own shirt. No red stripes.

Maybe, I thought, the red striped ones were some kind of graduates. With degrees of Bachelor of Schizophrenia. I noticed men from both sides of the room get up and saunter out through the various doors.

It didn't work quite the same way for me. The same two attendants were waiting for me. "Where to now?" I asked. "Back to the cage?" "Just one more little routine to go through," one of them said. His attitude was impersonal. We walked down the corridor into what seemed to be a large office, went through it and into a small private office. The man behind the desk was the uniform of a captain in the Russian Army.

"You speak Russian?" he asked. "Yes," I said. "Good. What is your name?" "Milo Nalayevo," I said, sticking to the name on my forged identity card. It wasn't really important, but it might help in the propaganda exchanges that would take place if I escaped. "We know who you are. This is just for the record. Now, what is your name?"

"The record — Milo Nalayevo." He shrugged and made a notation on the paper in front of him. "Lieutenant in the MVD."

Another notation. "Name and address of nearest of kin?" "Bulgaria," I said. "The Kremlin, Moscow—providing he hasn't moved. I haven't seen the man in years."

He put down his pencil. "This is really very foolish. We know what you are. Milo March, a military reservist, recently recalled to active duty and assigned to the Central Intelligence Agency. Your nearest of kin is Grete March, your wife who is formerly a citizen of Germany, and we have her address in Denver, Colo."

The stenographer headed me back to the corridor. "You really should be more cooperative," one of them said. "Look," I said. "I was cooperative enough last night to do me for a long time."

"All right," he said. "We can't stand around here talking about it all day. We'll be seeing you."

That's a right me off base. "What do you mean, you'll be seeing me?" Am I supposed to stand here all day?

"Of course not. Do anything you want to."

The two of them marched away before I could ask questions. It looked as if they meant it. I turned around and headed for the door.

Once I was out on the ground, I saw what the attendants meant. The wall around the grounds was 10 feet high, and I suspected, several feet thick. There were towers on top of the wall every hundred yards and in each tower

Farm Owner Loan Service Expanded

The farm ownership loan service which has enabled many county farmers to buy enlargers or improve their farms with 40-year loans has recently been expanded to include the Farmers Home Administration to serve the credit needs of a larger number of farm families. W. M. Sparks, the agency's county supervisor, explained the purchase or improvement of family-type farms.

Under recent legislation loans may now be made primarily to refinancing existing debts of owners to where the loans are family-type. In the past the agency only refinanced loans when the refinancing was incidental to the making of real estate loans for the purchase or improvement of family-type farms.

Mr. Sparks said the loans for refinancing will help farmers who have adequate real estate security and who are otherwise in a sound position to obtain credit. To meet their present credit obligations and need credit on more favorable terms and conditions than are currently available from other lenders.

When debts are refinanced by this program, the repayments will be scheduled over the period of 40 years according to the borrower's ability to repay. The regular credit services of the agency including loans for the purchase and improvement of family-type farms are continued.

Around the World

NEW DELHI, India, (UP) — The first plane ever to cross the Himalayas from Lhasa, Tibet, to India has arrived safely in New Delhi. It was reported today. The successful feat that has made the regular air service between Lhasa and New Delhi, informed sources

ROME, (UP) — A high Vatican source said "cautious hope" today that current charges in Poland may eventually lead to less persecution of the Catholic "church of silence" behind the Iron Curtain.

The spokesman stressed the need for caution, however, because in Poland, he said, the situation is a question of "one set of Communists being substituted by another set of Communists."

ROME, (UP) — Italian Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni, winner of the Stalin peace prize, has sent cables of "solidarity and confidence" to Poland's new leaders. It was announced today.

"The Socialist party executive voices the solidarity and confidence of the Polish working class and people in your decisions, in the certainty that they will help guarantee Poland the development of socialism in democracy and freedom," the cables said.

THE HAGUE, Holland, (UP) — The International Court of Justice upheld the international labor office today in the firing of four former employees of the United Nations Economic and Social Council for disloyalty.

The four, all Americans whose names were not disclosed, were fired by UNESCO in August, 1954, when they refused to answer U. S. government questionnaires on loyalty and past political affiliations. The four later appealed to the UNESCO appeals board and the international labor office administrative tribunal.

LONDON, (UP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said today that the government will introduce new proposals on capital punishment at the next session of parliament. He did not say what the new bill will contain.

MEXICO CITY, (UP) — A new credit of $23,500,000 granted by the Export-Import Bank of the United States will enable the government to completely rehabilitate the national railway in the next four years, officials said today.

The credit will be used to purchase diesel locomotives, rails, accessories, communication lines and equipment and electrical material to modernize the 15,000-mile system. Officials said the rehabilitation is indispensable for the continued development of the country.

Austria was freed in 1955 from 37 years of foreign occupation first by the Germans and then by the four Allied powers.

the SPINTERED man

CHAPTER XXVIII
When the doctor was through with me, they gave me some clothes, pants and a shirt. I was in a daze. I thought of something that was a cross between shoes and slippers. No, I was in a daze. There was no belt for the pants either. None of the clothes fit too well.

After that they led me down to the other end of the corridor where we took the elevator down to the main floor. They herded me into the first door. It turned out to be a large dining room, filled with long tables and benches. There must have been about a hundred men there eating breakfast. All of them were dressed as I was.

One of the attendants nudged me. "Go over there," he said, "and get a tray and utensils. Then go along the railing and you'll get your breakfast. Sit down any place you want to."

I saw the long railing in front of me. Two men stood back of the counter although now there weren't any customers. One of them was a stock of trays. Next to the trays were some big bowls and coffee mugs and spoons. I took a bowl and mug and two spoons. Then I stopped down to where the two men waited. One of them filled the bowl with oatmeal and slit the little pitcher of milk into the tray. I was about to move on when one of the men spoke in German.

"Here," he said. "Don't you wait there." He was holding a package of cheap German cigarettes and matches. I nodded and he tossed them into my tray. I went over to the nearest table.

There was another surprise for me. I'd expected the oatmeal to be the worst I'd ever had in prison, but it wasn't. Not that I'm an oatmeal fancier. The way I look at it, once you've got oatmeal, you've had it. They should have kept it in Scotland. But I was hungry enough to eat it. At first, I thought all the men were a breed. Red strips slanting across both arms of their shirts. And they looked healthier and more alert than the rest of the men, the ones without the red bar. I looked again at my own shirt. No red strips.

Maybe, I thought, the red striped one were some kind of graduates. With the degrees of Bachelor of Schizophrenia. I noticed men from both sides of the room get up and saunter out through the various doors.

It didn't work quite the same way for me. The same two attendants were waiting for me. "Where to now?" I asked. "Back to the cage?" "Just one more little routine to go through," one of them said. His attitude was impersonal. We walked down the corridor into what seemed to be a large office, went through it and into a small private office. The man behind the desk was the uniform of a captain in the Russian Army.

"You speak Russian?" he asked. "Yes," I said. "Good. What is your name?" "Milo Nal'ev," I said. "Milo Nal'ev," he said, looking at the name on my forged identity card. It wasn't really important, but it might help in the propaganda exchanges that would take place if I escaped. "We know who you are. This is just for the record. Now, what is your name?"

"The record — Milo Nal'ev," he said. He shrugged and made a notation on the paper in front of him. "Lieutenant in the MVD," he said. "Milo Nal'ev," he said, looking at the name on my forged identity card. It wasn't really important, but it might help in the propaganda exchanges that would take place if I escaped. Farm Owner Loan Service Expanded

The farm ownership loan service which has enabled many county farmers to buy enlargers or improve their farms with 40-year loans has recently been expanded to include the Farmers Home Administration to serve the credit needs of a larger number of farm families. W. M. Sparks, the agency's county supervisor, explained the purchase or improvement of family-type farms.

Under recent legislation loans may now be made primarily to refinancing existing debts of owners to where the loans are family-type. In the past the agency only refinanced loans when the refinancing was incidental to the making of real estate loans for the purchase or improvement of family-type farms.

Mr. Sparks said the loans for refinancing will help farmers who have adequate real estate security and who are otherwise in a sound position to make the loans. To meet their present credit obligations and need credit on more favorable terms and conditions than are currently available from other lenders.

When debts are refinanced by under this program, the repayments will be scheduled over the period of 40 years according to the borrower's ability to repay. The regular credit services of the agency including loans for the purchase and improvement of family-type farms are continued.

Around the World

NEW DELHI, India, (UP) — The first plane ever to cross the Himalayas from Lhasa, Tibet, to India has arrived safely in New Delhi. It was reported today. The successful feat that has made the regular air service between Lhasa and New Delhi, informed sources said.

ROME, (UP) — A high Vatican source said "cautious hope" today that current charges in Poland may eventually lead to less persecution of the Catholic "Church of silence" behind the Iron Curtain.

The spokesman stressed the need for caution, however, because in Poland, he said, the situation is a question of "one set of Communists being substituted by another set of Communists."

ROME, (UP) — Italian Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni, winner of the Stalin peace prize, has sent cables of "solidarity and confidence" to Poland's new leaders. It was announced today.

The Socialist party executive voices the solidarity and confidence of the Polish working class and people in your decisions, in the certainty that they will help guarantee Poland the development of socialism in democracy and freedom," the cables said.

THE HAGUE, Holland, (UP) — The International Court of Justice upheld the international labor office today in the firing of four former employees of the United Nations Economic and Social Council for disloyalty.

The four, all Americans whose names were not disclosed, were fired by UNRRA in August, 1944, when they refused to answer U. S. government questionnaires on loyalty and past political affiliations. The four later appealed to the UNRRA appeals board and the International labor office administrative tribunal.

LONDON, (UP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said today that the government will introduce new proposals on capital punishment at the next session of parliament. He did not say what the new bill will contain.

A bill abolishing the death penalty was adopted by the Commons but was rejected by the House of Lords earlier this year. The credit will be used to purchase diesel locomotives, rails, accessories, communication lines and equipment and electrical material to modernize the 15,000-mile system. Officials said the rehabilitation is indispensable for the continued development of the country.

Austria was freed in 1955 from 37 years of foreign occupation first by the Germans and then by the four Allied powers.

Shift in Care of Old Folks Taking Place

WASHINGTON (AP)—A basic shift in the pattern of federal and state care for older persons is taking place today, according to the Social Security Administration. The shift is from the old-age pension rolls to the new Social Security program, and from the old-age pension rolls to the new Social Security program.

CENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE—Philip Piccy, 14, far left, of Ashford, Conn., casts unbelieveing eyes at the first bull moose reported in the Nutmeg state in a century. Game wardens remained unconvinced of the sighting until shown this photograph, reproduced from a color slide taken by Philip's father, Victor Piccy, when the animal appeared in the pasture of the family's farm.

Shift in Care of Old Folks Taking Place

WASHINGTON (AP)—A basic shift in the pattern of federal and state care for older persons is taking place today, according to the Social Security Administration. The shift is from the old-age pension rolls to the new Social Security program, and from the old-age pension rolls to the new Social Security program.

The Scout program is a program which sets before the Scout, first a set of high ideals, and secondly a program by which he can attain these ideals.

The most characteristic point of a Boy Scout is not his uniform, or his badge, but his attitude—the attitude of the Scout is his ideal of cleanliness of mind and body, his high purposes as seen in his responsibilities he assumes in the school, the church, and the home.

The program of the "God and Country Award" offers him an opportunity to channel his service in the service of his own church. This ought to be encouraged by all parents and scouters, and by all members of the Brotherhood of the Boy Scouts of America.

Every citizen should do his part in his power to support the program of the Boy Scouts of America.

Mrs. McGuire also had charge of the program "What Makes You Tick?" in which Mrs. White, Mrs. Harry Kenney, Mrs. Jimmy Allen, and Mrs. Henry took parts with the flannel board demonstration.

In Maine, the proportion is 50% on Social Security, 10% on pension rolls.

In New Hampshire, 58% to 97% in Connecticut, 58% to 21%.

A Southern state, Florida, comes fifth in Social Security coverage ranking, with 48% of older persons getting assistance from source of each 212 on the pension rolls.

Comparable figures for other states as of June this year (Social Security holders and State pensioners, in that order, per 1,000 of population 65 or over included): Arkansas 330-324.

Why I Believe in Boy Scout Program

William E. Harris, Chairman, Minister. Every Boy Scout learns the oath or promise, and the Scout law, and these comprise a fourfold promise. The promise includes the boy's duty to God, his duty to his Nation, his duty to others, and his duty to himself. He is charged to make of himself the very best that he is capable of becoming. The Scout program is a program which sets before the Scout, first a set of high ideals, and secondly a program by which he can attain these ideals.

The most characteristic point of a Boy Scout is not his uniform, or his badge, but his attitude—the attitude of the Scoutmaster. His ideal of cleanliness of mind and body, his high purposes as seen in his responsibilities he assumes in the school, the church, and the home.

The program of the "God and Country Award" offers him an opportunity to channel his service in the service of his own church. This ought to be encouraged by all parents and Scouters, and by all members of the community.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reynolds, Kay, John and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Timman Worthington, and Mrs. J. R. Bernie, Maria Jane, Andy and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oates, Richmond, and Emily, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crane and Pauppy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kenney, Reporter, Mrs. A. E. McGuire, Devotional Leader, Mrs. George Hunt.

The hostess served a dessert plate with punch.

Mrs. For Entertainers Canasta Club Mrs. Vernon For entertained the 1956 Canasta Club at her home on Friday afternoon. Arrangements of roses and chrysanthemums were placed at vantage points in the party rooms.

High score honors were won by Mrs. W. P. Cummings.

A dainty salad, and dessert course was served to members.

Great Southern Expects Bus Strike

JONESBORO, IN — An expected walkout of union bus drivers and mechanics apparently will hamper operations of Great Southern Coaches at midnight tonight. Ernest Kerasz, manager of the firm, said today "there has been no change in the situation as far as we know."

The company, which runs buses between here and St. Louis, Memphis, Blytheville and Newport, was notified yesterday that a strike would be called unless agreement was reached on a new contract.

The employees who would be involved in the pending walkout are members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Farabee said that "as far as we know, the strike will begin as scheduled."

Although the firm has said it felt it had made a fair wage offer, it has not disclosed the offer. The union likewise has not disclosed its demands.

No Diploma Necessary to Join Airforce

T/Sgt. Ralph J. Steed, Local Air Force Recruiter said today that some people have misunderstood the Air Force Recruiting slogan "Graduate, Then Fly." Many young men, while wishing to serve in the Air Force, have missed the boat because of the mistaken idea that a high school diploma is necessary to enlist.

The meaning of the slogan really was that the Air Force desires, and naturally so, the high school graduate but does not limit its membership to this particular group. Many thousands of young men, without a high school education, have entered the Air Force and later received their diploma through courses pursued, and tests taken while serving in the Air Force. Therefore, if you are a young man interested in the Air Force and can pass the qualifying tests, the Air Force can use you now.

Great Southern Expects Bus Strike

JONESBORO, Mo. — An expected walkout of union bus drivers and mechanics apparently will hamper operations of Great Southern Coaches at midnight tonight.

Ernest Krazee, manager of the firm, said today "there has been no change in the situation as far as we know."

The company, which runs buses between here and St. Louis, Memphis, Blytheville and Newport, was notified yesterday that a strike would be called unless agreement was reached on a new contract.

The employees who would be involved in the pending walkout are members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Farabee said that "as far as we know, the strike will begin as scheduled."

Although the firm has said it felt it had made a fair wage offer, it has not disclosed the offer. The union likewise has not disclosed its demands.

No Diploma Necessary to Join Airforce

T/Sgt. Ralph J. Steed, Local Air Force Recruiter said today that some people have misunderstood the Air Force Recruiting slogan "Graduate, Then Fly."

Many young men, while wishing to serve in the Air Force, have missed the boat because of the mistaken idea that a high school diploma is necessary to enlist.

The meaning of the slogan really was that the Air Force desires, and naturally so, the high school graduate but does not limit its membership to this particular group. Many thousands of young men, without a high school education, have entered the Air Force and later received their diploma through courses pursued, and tests taken while serving in the Air Force. Therefore, if you are a young man interested in the Air Force and can pass the qualifying tests, the Air Force can use you now.

Dog racing Nets State $146,000

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The initial dog racing season at South land's plush West Memphis track which ended last night, netted in about $146,000 in revenue for the state, Revenue Commissioner Orville Chaney said today.

Through the 30th day of the season, Chaney said, it was the state's largest source of revenue, that was wagered. Attendance for this period was 89,401.

Southland starts its second 40 day meet tomorrow night, but may not complete it.

The constitutionality of the dog racing law is under attack before the Supreme Court, and decision may be handed down next Monday. The State Revenue commission appealed a judgment of the Arkansas Supreme Court which forced the commission to issue a franchise.

The commission contends the law allows it to use its discretion in issuing the permit of other all other stimulations of law have been met.

Shift in Care of Old Folks Taking Place

WASHINGTON (AP)—A basic shift in the pattern of federal and state care for older persons is taking place today, according to the Social Security Administration. The shift is from the old-age pension rolls to the old-age assistance rolls. The old-age pension rolls are for those who are 65 or over and have worked in covered employment for at least 10 years. The old-age assistance rolls are for those who are 65 or over and have not worked in covered employment for at least 10 years. The shift is being made because the old-age pension rolls are becoming increasingly expensive to maintain. The old-age assistance rolls are much less expensive to maintain. The shift is being made in a number of states, including Arkansas. In Arkansas, the shift is being made by the Arkansas State Board of Social Security. The board is responsible for administering the old-age pension and old-age assistance programs in the state. The board is currently reviewing the old-age pension rolls to determine which individuals should be moved to the old-age assistance rolls. The board is also reviewing the old-age assistance rolls to determine which individuals should be moved to the old-age pension rolls. The board is expected to complete its review by the end of the year. The shift is expected to result in a significant reduction in the cost of the old-age pension program. The old-age assistance program is expected to remain relatively stable in cost. The shift is also expected to result in a more equitable distribution of benefits. Individuals who are 65 or over and have worked in covered employment for at least 10 years will receive a higher benefit than those who have not worked in covered employment for at least 10 years. The shift is also expected to result in a more efficient use of resources. The old-age pension program is expected to be able to pay benefits to a larger number of individuals than the old-age assistance program. The shift is also expected to result in a more secure future for older persons. Why I Believe in Boy Scout Program

William E. Harris, Chairman, Minister.

Every Boy Scout learns the oath or promise, and the Scout law, and these comprise a fourfold promise. The promise includes the boy's duty to God, his duty to his Nation, his duty to others, and his duty to himself. He is charged to make of himself the very best that he is capable of becoming. The Scout program is a program which sets before the Scout, first a set of high ideals, and secondly a program by which he can attain these ideals.

The most characteristic point of a Boy Scout is not his uniform, or his badge, but his attitude—the attitude of the Scout is his ideal of cleanliness of mind and body, his high purposes as seen in responsibilities he assumes in the home, the church, and the school.

The program of the "God and Country Award" offers him an opportunity to channel his service in the service of his own church. This ought to be encouraged by all parents and scouts, and by all members of the Brotherhood of the Boy Scouts of America.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reynolds, Kay, John and Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Timman Worthington, and Mrs. J. R. Bernie, Maria Jane, Andy and Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oates, Richmond and Emily, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crane and Pauppy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kenney, Reporter, Mrs. A. E. McGuire, Devotional Leader, Mrs. George Hunt.

The hostess served a dessert plate with punch.

New Violence Rocks Border in North Africa

TUNIS (AP)—New violence rocked North Africa as border incidents between French-Tunisian relations continued today.

Premier Habib Bouguiba's government claimed many Tunisians were wounded when a French military convoy from Algeria tried to smash through a roadblock the Arabs had set up to prevent such crossings.

The French denied breaching any blockade and said there had been no casualties.

Elsewhere in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, French troops and Arabs clashed in fresh flareups sparked by resentment over French seizure of five tons of Algerian rebels Monday en route to a conference in Tunis.

In Casablanca, two Moroccan policemen were killed and two wounded last night in the European quarter. A jeep carrying the slain policemen was shot at by machine-gun fire from an Arab-made car.

In Algiers, six Europeans were wounded when extremists fired into a cafe.

In Oran, where four Europeans were killed by rebels yesterday, French forces still have a roadblock. The French lost one dead and four wounded.

At Ain Mokrane near Oran, 14 rebels were killed. Seventeen others fell elsewhere in Algeria.

The French have been patrolling the Tunisian border to prevent supplies of arms from passing over to the rebels.

The French have granted Tunisia a de facto independence. Thousands of troops still remain in the country pending final negotiations.

Cotton Harvest Soon to End

JONESBORO (AP)—Employment Security Division officials here said one of the earliest cotton harvests in history will end shortly in eastern Arkansas.

Cotton pickers are being expected to begin leaving in a few days. In some areas the harvest is finished and rural schools are opening two to three weeks earlier than usual.

Cotton pickers are running well ahead of last year in Calhoun, Polk, Boone, Jackson, Mississippi, Lawrence and Crittenden counties.

Faubus Gives His Views on Proposals

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus says he will vote against a proposed constitutional amendment that would remove the 10 percent limit on interest rates.

Faubus said yesterday there is only one other proposal he plans to vote against—an interposition amendment sponsored by Jim Johnson, south Arkansas segregationist.

Faubus said he would support the Democratic "task force" proposal to set up a new agricultural program for early action by Congress.

The Democratic presidential nominee said that if elected, he would create the "task force" to study the economic situation of the South.

Adlai Plans a New Farm Program

ROCKISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson sought new Democratic converts in the Midwestern Farm Belt today with a promise to set up a Democratic "task force" to study the economic situation of the South.

Hagerty Denies Ike Suffered New Attack

U. S. Considering Showing Support for Hungarians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reportedly today to be considering several possible moves to show support for the revolt in Eastern Europe.

Among possible actions under study are:

1. A protest to Moscow against the use of Russian forces in Hungary.
2. An appeal to the U. N. for an inquiry into the role of Russian forces in the Hungarian fighting.
3. Extension of financial and economic aid to regimes which show independence of Moscow.
4. The State Department is looking into all aspects of the matter, legal, moral and political—in a study of what is possible and desirable.

The subject presumably was discussed at a morning session of the National Security Council with President Eisenhower presiding.

In Paris, French Foreign Minister Christian Fieschi said the United States, Britain and France might take the Hungarian case to the U. N., charging illegal use of Soviet army units to shoot down demonstration workers and students.

Officials have conceded that an appeal to the U. N. is in fact being studied but said that no decision had yet been made.

Officials also said that reports from the Budapest told of various demonstration groups appealing to the U. S. Legation within the last two or three days for help to cause the evacuation of Soviet troops.

Legation officials told them the Legation was reporting fully to Washington on developments and informing officials here of the feelings of Hungarian officers and the situation.

These accounts did not say the workers asked at the U. S. Legation for an appeal to the U. N. "they were reported to" have done at the British Legation.

A question which has been asked is whether the U. S. has any possible financial and economic aid of regimes which make up a crowd of Soviet troops in Hungary.

Whether aid may be requested in Hungary is a question which is being asked by the U. S. State Department.

Judge Praises the Value of Scouting

Judge James H. Pilkinton issued the following statement in regard to the value of Boy Scout work:

"I believe that the Boy Scouts of America, second only to the Church and Sunday School, is the organization which above all others is making the most valuable contribution to the youth of our land."

Those of us who work in the courts have a special reason to be thankful for the Scout program. Boys who have had the advantages of scouting seldom, if ever, become problems for the courts. They are law-abiding, self-reliant, and useful citizens instead of puny charges.

Many people today are disturbed about the so-called juvenile delinquency problem. If they really want to do something constructive about the situation, there is no better way to start than to fully support and encourage the Boy Scout program in the community where they happen to live.

I fully endorse the Scout program, and am happy to make a contribution each year for its support.
